KINGSTON WAS SCRATCHED.
Sallie McClelland Got the Spinaway After a Bruising Finish.

Special to the Evening World.
Saratoga, N.Y., July 26.—The racing resumed here today, but the weather is still very unfavorable, as a slow rain fell nearly all the morning and the clouds were dark and threatening when the sports began.

The track was in a heavy condition, which caused a number of horses to be scratched, but the attendance was fully up to that of the opening day, and a number of ladies braved the elements in order to take a flyer on a favorite.

The betting was lively and the thirty-two bookmakers were kept busy, but the wagers as a rule were small.

The scratching of Kingston in the California Stakes caused considerable disappointment, but the knowing ones stated last night that he would not start today.

It began to rain hard again when the horses went to the post for the first race.

Special to the Evening World.
Cincinnati, July 26.—The closing game of the series with the New Yorks drew close on to 3,000 people to the Cincinnati Park this afternoon.

As Count Mullane appeared in the box for the opening inning he was enthusiastically applauded.

The Cincinnatians were first to the bat.

The batting order:
NEW YORK (N. L.) CINCINNATI (N. L.)
Tiebout, c. f. McPhee, 2d b.

BEATTIE TOOTS HIS HORN.
Anomalies in the Street-Cleaning Commissioner's Quarterly Rep.

Special to the Evening World.
Street-Cleaning Commissioner Beattie toots his own horn in his report of the administration of his department for the second quarter of 1890. The horn does not possess the attributes of Gabriel's trumpet, however.

It has awakened in no one dead to the hope that the streets will ever be cleaned by Mr. Beattie, a belief that he is clean.

Mr. Beattie makes some queer comparisons with the cost of conducting the Department for the first three months of the year, comes complacently to the conclusion that he has saved $29,814.16, and metaphorically pats himself on the back and remarks confidentially to his ego, "I am the stuff."

There is no report from the Commissioner of Street-Cleaning for the first quarter of this year to be found anywhere, and it would be impossible to verify Mr. Beattie's comparisons were it not for one thing.

In May last Mr. Beattie furnished Mayor Grant with memoranda showing the amount expended by the Department for the first quarter of the year, and estimating the deficiency which would result at that rate at the year's end.

That cover of the file in the Mayor's office and furnishes the figures with which Mr. Beattie should have made his comparisons.

Mr. Beattie, in May, said that it cost $361,189.74 to run his Department during the first quarter of 1890, or $30,507.48 per month, and that he had saved $29,814.16, or $2,693.32, at the year's end.

Mr. Beattie, in July, says he has run his Department nearly $30,000 cheaper for the quarter ended June 30, but he gives the total expense as $347,523.61, and a slight error in the mathematics shows that he actually saved $10,664.11, according to his own statements. It will not be claimed he had to remove any snow in April or May.

But it is obvious that a comparison with the work of the first quarter of the year is unfair and one is in order with the report for the corresponding quarter of 1889, when Mr. Coleman was Commissioner.

The cost of running the Department for that quarter was $316,664.19, or $30,507.48 less than Mr. Beattie acknowledges that he thinks he spent for the corresponding quarter of 1890.

While Mr. Beattie's horn-tooting is waking up old facts and figures, if nothing else, and they are rising to confront him in a way that will like "Full Nye" despise.

He has had removed more ashes and dirt than did Commissioner Coleman for the second quarter of 1889, there still remains the fact that the streets are to-day in no better, if indeed they are in as good condition as they were under Mr. Coleman's administration.

The rain of the past two days has done much to assist the Commissioner in removing the filth which accumulated during the strike, and will save him probably $5,000 or more, for which he can now look for the tone of another quarter, if he is in office then.

LOOKS LIKE FOUL PLAY.
A Man Found Drowned with Bruises on His Head.

The body of an unknown man was found in the North River off Thirty-fifth street this morning. He was about thirty-five years old, 5 feet 10 inches high and had light hair and mustache.

His left eye was black and entirely closed, and over his right eye was an ugly cut. In his pocket was a purse containing 10 cents and a pawn ticket for a coat and pants.

The body was taken to the morgue. It had been in the water about four days.

Necromancy Colt Defeated Russell in the Sapling Stakes.

Special to the Evening World.
MONMOUTH PARK RACE TRACK, July 26.—Before the races began at Monmouth Park today there was a little excitement over the stand. Mr. Caldwell accused Mr. Morton, who writes for the Evening Post, with criticizing him too harshly, and that if he did not stop he (Caldwell) would make him, even if he had to use physical force.

After calling Mr. Morton some harsh names the starter walked away, while Mr. Morton went into the Committee and preferred charges against Mr. Caldwell.

Tenny was scratched out of the Passaic Stakes and Russell was made a big favorite. He ran only second, though to Voluntee, who seems to have been given a new life since he ran last.

Russell was made a big favorite for the Sapling Stakes and as the track was deep in mud it looked like a cinch for him. The Necromancy colt from the Withers stable was the dark horse and best Russell handsly.

Mr. Scott's Banquet had a regular walk-over for the Stevens stakes. His only competitors were Jersey Pat and King's Own, who were hardly better than selling players.

Cornington complained about the way Mr. Caldwell, assistant to Reporter with the whip, took at the track today.

Some of those who were at the start say that it looked as if Cornington tried to get left at the track today.

Elmer won and the others in the Withers stable arrived at the track today.
